Draft text

From line 27 to 31:

However, due to the very construction of the space we inherit, shaped for cars, it is still difficult to get around outside built-up areas. This is why, [Space][Space]while wishing to reduce the space occupied by the car and emphasizing to need to quickly develop the necessary infrastructure enabling a comprehensive modal shift both at urban and inter-urban levels, it is also necessary to [Space][Space]support the transition to less-polluting automobile mobility, away from the internal combustion engine. The EV can be ~~one-way of achieving such a transition~~ short-term partial solution in order to decarbonize road transport.
